American forests will temporarily be occupied by German troops extending police supervision, according to the Deutsche Allgemeine Zeitung of Berlin, which says that an American wireless dispatch to this effect has been interrupted by the Germans. The newspaper says that Mannheim will be occupied. The reason for this action on the part of the allies is said to be

Serious Disorders.
Serious disorders have arisen in Berlin and considerable firing has occurred in the principal streets, according to reports reaching the Dutch-German frontier, says an Exchange Telegraph dispatch from Amsterdam. The trouble is said to have been caused by the German Bolsheviks.

The Zurich correspondent of the Paris Journal reported Thursday that he had received advices that a terror-the revolution would break out in Berlin Friday evening. The revolution, it was alleged, would be led by Dr. Liebknecht, the radical socialist, who was said to have 15,000 well armed men under his command.

From the foregoing dispatch it is apparent the disorders occurred before Friday evening.

Daunting Responsible.

The man who more than any other person is responsible for Germany's present policy is Ernest Daumig, according to the Berlin correspondent of the Daily Express. Until 1916 Daumig was a member of the staff of the socialist Vorwarts of Berlin. Later he was secretary of the independent socialists. He now is president of the national council and the ates to the six commissaries who form the government. Daumig told the correspondent of the Express that the peace delegates would be selected by the present cabinet, which would have made Solz's claim in power until the meeting of the Reichstag probably true. He declared the government's intention to get rid of all persons belonging to the old regime. Dr. Solz, the foreign secretary, would be replaced by a man who had taken no part in political wrangling of the war. The strength of the new German army, Dr. Baumling told the correspondent, would be decided at the peace conference. He did not think Germany would need a large army or navy. The Germans, he said, were not aggressive.

Washington, Dec. 6.—An earthquake of great intensity, approximately 2,600

There was another sharp shock at 22 o'clock. It was thought at the observatory that the disturbance was from South America.

RETURNED HERO WELCOMED HOME

CAPTAIN FRED RAO GUEST AT RECEPTION GIVEN AT ELKS CLUB LAST EVENING. HAS BEEN INVOLVED HOME.

GREETED BY TEUTONS

Told Of How The Thirty Second Division Were Welcomed By Germans on Their First Time In Trenches.

Captain Fred Rao, invalided home from France after participating in some of the greatest battles of the war and twice wounded, was the guest of honor at an informal reception held at the Elks Club last evening. The reception was given as a welcome to Captain Rao, Sergeant David Cunningham and John Robert, Lt. Robert Bailey, W. P. Langdon, Russell Parker and others who have recently returned from military service.

Captain Rao, wearing two wound chevrons, a service stripe and a French decoration for bravery under fire was given the greatest reception ovation ever given a soldier in this city. When he entered the hall the place rang with the cheers of the people present.

Nearly two hundred Elks and residents of Janesville gathered at the club rooms to pay their respects to

CAPTAIN FRED RAO.

Captain Rao and the other Janesville boys who left this city to do their bit. At seven thirty o'clock the reception opened with the Arcadia orchestra playing "Good Bye Alexander." This popular number scored an instant hit and the orchestra was requested to give an encore. They responded with "Your Some Pretty Baby." Several other selections were played by the orchestra while the crowd assembled in the large hall.

Lieut. Robert Bailey of the American Red Cross was then asked to sing and responded with "I Am Always Chasing It." Lieut. Bailey was followed by an encore and sang "Smiles."

Private Nasser of Seattle, Washington was then introduced to the assembly by Thomas Murphy. Exalted ruler of the Elks. The orchestra then played "Mickey" which was received with a round of applause from all present.

At that moment word was given that Captain Rao was coming and to the strains of the Star Spangled Banner, Captain Rao entered the hall. Scouting at attention while the orchestra played the national anthem, Captain Rao presented a remarkable picture of a veteran of the greatest war the world has ever seen.

When the national anthem was finished the crowd burst in to an uproar and for fully five minutes the hall rang with the cheers of the people present. Captain Rao was deeply impressed by the ovation given him and with a smile and a wave of his hand he returned the welcome given him.

Major David Atwood of the Wisconsin State Guards gave the opening address in which he told of the nature of the meeting and also told of the great credit that had been given Captain Rao and the Janesville boys who were members of the Thirty Second Division known as "Les Terribles" a name bestowed on them by their foe.

Major Atwood introduced A. J. Matheson, a member of the local board of District No. 1 of Rock county. Mr. Matheson told of the work of the local board and the many almost tragic scenes that were witnessed by the members of the board when they were forced to compel a man to leave his family to go forth to fight.

Mr. Matheson then told of how that disagreeable task had been finished and that he was now engaged in an agreeable task of welcoming the boys home.

He paid a fitting tribute to soldiers both here and abroad and also told of the great credit that should be given the men who stayed at home for the splendid way in which they supported the boys abroad and in the cantonments in this county.

Mr. Matheson in conclusion told of the remarkable deeds performed by the American boys and stated that the people of the United States had just come for being proud of the greatest army of fighting men in the world, men who had proven to be far superior to soldiers who had been trained for many years.

Captain Rao was then called upon for an address and especially requested to tell of some of his great experiences. The Captain's modesty seemed to have prevented him from telling those present all of his real thrilling experiences. However he described in a vivid manner some of the battles he had participated in and also spoke of a few Germans that he personally met that no one would ever meet again.

In opening his address he told of the work of Company M, at Camp Douglas and Camp MacArthur. He told of their trip to New York and how the Thirty-Second Division left Hoboken on February 17th, on the U. S. How the boats sighting a Hun Submarine and several other boats, marine and machine gun fire, the division gained their first victim on the high seas by sinking the U boat.

Captain Rao stated that they landed at Brest, France, on March 4th, and were quartered in old barracks that were used by Napoleon to quarter his troops. He then told of the division being moved up to the training area, behind the lines and the work done by the boys before entering the trenches.

Captain Rao then spoke of the first incident of the division. It was when the Thirty Second was used as a replacement division in a combat at last all of their privates, Captain Caldwell and Lieut. Rao.

The speaker then told of the Thirty Second division being made a combat division again after Major Haan had personally interviewed General Pershing. Shortly afterward the Captain stated the division was moved up into the Alsace sector and of the great credit that was used to guard against the Germans ascertaining the identity of the division. He stated that they relieved the First Division in the front line trenches in the dead of night and, one of the blackest nights he had ever seen.

"The men were all sure," he said, "that the Germans had not discovered the change, but imagine their surprise the next morning when on looking out in No Man's Land they sighted a sign about twenty feet long and ten feet high bearing the inscription 'Welcome Thirty Second Division.'"

Captain Rao stated that the Alsace sector was a very quiet one and that there was a general agreement between the French and German that they wouldn't fight. He stated however, that it was a common sight to see German soldiers washing in a canal in No Man's Land or sitting on top of their trench smoking a pipe. He explained however that this method ceased as soon as the Americans entered the sector.

The speaker then told of the attack made by the Germans at Chateau Thierry and that it was not until General Pershing demanded of Marshall Foch that the Americans were allowed to enter the fight as a unit. The French claiming the Americans did not know much about war, that actual fun began.

He spoke of the Thirty Second division being rushed to Chateau Thierry in motor trucks and when they arrived the French were running and their only thought was to get to Paris.

In a clear vivid manner Captain Rao described the horrors of the battle of Chateau Thierry. He told how the Americans stopped the oncoming masses of Hun and turned a rout into a clear victory for the Allies. In that fight Captain Rao stated he started with two hundred and sixty-four men and finished with forty-seven. He estimated the loss of the Allies in that one battle at one hundred thousand, killed and wounded.

Captain Rao then told of his being wounded the first time while engaged in the fighting between St. Galle and Fismes. He was forced to remain in the hospital three weeks. He related the incident in which the Thirty Second division worked their way up the Vesle river and the splendid showing made by them. They were continually picked by General Pershing as the savior division and many times saved the day for the Allies.

Captain Rao spoke of his return to the division and the terrible fight in the Solsona Gap. Of the repeated efforts of the Germans to break the Allied line and the splendid manner in which they were repulsed by the Thirty Second Division with the French Blue Devils on the left.

Of their attack to drive the Germans from the Vesle and the terrible onslaught at Juvigny. Captain Rao was wounded the second time as he was entering Juvigny and was forced to retire from the fight never to return.

In telling of his personal experiences he spoke of going over the top and finding a German who holed for "God's sake don't shoot I am from New York," Captain Rao said that if he hadn't said that they might of spared him but that was too much and that the Hun never talked again.

In closing he told of the great respect the allies had for the German soldiers and stated that regardless of the many stories told of the Germans surrendering in droves he had never witnessed it and that they would fight until the very last. He closed by paying a fitting tribute to the Janesville heroes who left this city as members of Company M of the Wisconsin National Guard.

After the address of Captain Rao a bounteous buffet lunch prepared by the Elks Club was served. The lunch was tastefully prepared and made a decided hit with those present. After the lunch several other addresses were given and the Arcadia orchestra played several selections.

Senator John M. Whitehead made a splendid address on American manhood and paid a beautiful tribute to Captain Rao and the other American soldiers. Roy Ryan was called upon to dance and entertained the crowd with some very clever clog dancing.

Lieut. Daily rendered another song and made a big hit with his rendition of "Rose of No Man's Land." Sergeant David Cunningham was then called upon for a few words and told of his life in a training camp and spoke of how it was the ambition of every man in training to be able to get across and return with the service stripes.

The reception closed with the signing of the Star Spangled Banner by all present.

HANG THE KAISER IS
REV. PARISOE'S IDEA

Janesville residents will be interested in the following item from a Chicago paper relating an experience of Reverend Edwin Parisoe, formerly pastor of the Presbyterian church in this city. The story is complete in itself and needs no special comment.

Dr. Edwin Parisoe of Polo, Ill., turned the village of Lombard upside down recently by a talk to the Men's Fellowship club on his experience as a war work drive and the member of the village of Lombard upside down. Incidentally he said the Kaiser must be hanged, and made an appeal for the war work drive, and the members subscribed enough to put the town over the top.

It was supposed to be a meeting for men, but the wives and daughters of the members, who served the dinner, became so interested that they slipped into the room and stayed to the end. Dr. Parisoe spoke for an hour and a half.

Never call a negro a "nigger" again," he said. "Their wonderful work at the battle fronts has won them the right to our help and respect."

A gray-bearded Union veteran of the civil war in the audience shouted: "They've never been treated right and never will."

"This is a new era," replied Dr. Parisoe. "We are confronted by a great new problem which we will solve or it will overwhelm us."

Parisoe told the American army was the best-equipped, cleanest and most efficient army that ever went to battle. "The long-haired reformers who come back and tell us our soldier boys are unclean and dissipated should be whipped with a club," he said.

Nothing could be better than the equipment of the American boys. They have the best cannon, the best gas masks, the best food. The feeding of the American army was a marvel to the allies.

"One night I had dinner with a French group in a dugout near the front-line trenches. We had thick beefsteak, white bread, good butter, potatoes as only the French can fry them, fine coffee and wonderful cheese. We were deeply grateful to our hosts and complimented them in the best French we could command."

"Then we took a tour around the place, and in the cook's dugout I saw a can labeled 'Wisconsin Butter,' and then we learned that the best stinks and all had come from the American quartermaster."

French Are Grateful.

"The French are wonderfully grateful to the American soldiers. They will make any sacrifice to help them, and in return the Yanks are working like heroes to help the French fugitives rehabilitate themselves."

"The soldiers of every land have their characteristics. The Yanks call the British 'Tommy' 'W-G' which means 'Work and Grumble.' The French soldier is different. He is cheerful. The colonial troops are more like our boys."

Dr. Parisoe made a strong appeal for the people to steel themselves against the pro-German propaganda for a soft peace. The propaganda started last August, he said, and is growing stronger. The Kaiser, his sons and the rulers of the Hun allies must be hanged, he said.

ESTABLISH BRANCH
OFFICE AT MADISON

A branch of the Federal Employment Service has been established at Madison, equipped and authorized to assist returning soldiers in obtaining employment in civil life.

To work systematically and with understanding, it is necessary that this branch should be made up of men from the jurisdiction of each local Wisconsin Board who are now in military or naval service.

This is a matter in which the whole community is interested and boards are now requested to furnish the necessary preliminary data as soon as possible.

The Federal Employment Service has authority over discharge, and cannot guarantee to procure them. The bureau has however, or soon will have, representatives at every national camp or cantonment.

Policy of the government to grant early discharge to those soldiers in whose families there is sickness or other distress and also to those who urgently needed on farms or in other civilian occupation.

Relatives and employers of soldiers are advised to apply by letter to Mr. Eswald, Federal Employment Service, Madison, Wis. The letter should give the soldier's name, home address, his company and regiment, and if known, the camp or post at which he is stationed, and all other employment awaits him. The information will be forwarded to the representative of the Employment Service at cantonments and will serve to hasten the soldier's discharge even if these cannot, for military reasons, be given immediately.

Anyone desiring further information can apply at the local office of the S. Employment Service, 122 E. Milwaukee street.

100% PURITY QUALITY EXCELLENCE

PURE RICH MILK IS BOTH MEAT AND DRINK

No other food plays so important a part in the physical well-being of the human race as does milk. From baby-hood to old age we need and thrive on plenty of pure, rich milk.

Drink more milk,
use it in cooking and baking. Even at double its present price milk would still be the best and cheapest all-around food. No better health-insurance for the family than good milk. A quart a day for children, 3 to 4 glasses a day for adults.

To Our Patrons:

We have been notified that the Milk Producers are going to charge us $3.77
a hundred pounds for milk in December, an increase of 9c over the November price. Therefore, we are obliged to advance the price of our Pasteurized Milk to 14c a quart to our customers.

Harry A. Wheeler, Federal Administrator for Illinois, stated in the Chicago Tribune last Tuesday as follows: "The distributors cannot afford to pay $3.77 for milk and sell it at 14c a quart but they decided to take the additional loss rather than have the price advanced to 15c. Their action deserves credit and there should be no complaint if they are allowed to hold the price at 14c later when the price of milk begins to go lower—at least long enough to repay their losses."

We are confident that our customers will appreciate our position and continue their patronage as in the past.

HEART AND HOME PROBLEMS

BY ELIZABETH THOMPSON
LETTERS MAY BE ADDRESSED TO MRS. THOMPSON, IN CARE OF THE GAZETTE

Dear Mrs. Thompson: We have been married eleven years and have seven children, ranging from a baby to ten years. There was never any jealousy on either side until last spring my husband had to go on a two hundred mile trip on business. When a friend of ours heard of this, asked if she could drive with my husband, as she had relatives at that place and wished to visit them.

They made the trip one day and stayed a week. Then they returned home. We never thought anything else but that this lady would say, "What are the ducks," thinking she would offer to pay some of the gas, but not a word.

Now when I want my husband to get some member of the family to do a little work for us, he always says, "Please forget about it."

Does this sound suspicious or am I just jealous?

These people have a lovely home, but I am not sure how they never asked us out to their home or showed us a favor of any kind. You can imagine we have plenty to do with the little ones, as I do all the work myself.

Please answer as soon as convenient as this is causing a lot of worry and trouble in the family.

Yes, you are suffering from an attack of jealousy. Nothing has occurred which would mean that your husband is interested in the other woman or she in him.

The woman thought that as long as your husband was making the trip it would be no additional expense for him to take her along. She probably felt delicate about offering money for the favor and did not realize that it would be needed by you. Your husband is generous and wants to consider the matter closed. Do not suggest having members of the woman's family do work for you. Such a thing sounds cheap to your husband and irritates him.

This is a matter you must entirely forget. To mention it again will only make your husband more impatient with you and will endanger your happiness together.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: We are two girls and have a couple of boy friends who go with us when they can.

One of them is a very nice fellow, but he is a little bit of a flirt. He is very popular with the girls and is very popular with the boys.

SIDE TALKS

—BY—

THE OLD, OLD DIALOGUE

I was amused to hear a man and a woman behind me in the trolley, the other day, conducting what I am sure was an age-old dialogue between the sexes.

The woman was making comments upon some people whom they had spoken to when they got in, and who were now separated from them by about half a car-length. She said, "The time, she said, when Mrs. Russell didn't wear a fur coat. In fact, she could remember the time when she was thankful to have some of her rich relations pass on a shabby second-hand coat. But since Mr. Russell had gone into the contracting business, she'd forgotten all about those times, especially since the failure of his that seemed to leave him so much better off."

"Don't Speak So Loud They'll Hear You."

The husband, who had been moving uneasily in his seat, became vocal at this. "Don't speak so loud," he said. "They'll hear you."

"Nonsense!" said the woman. "They can't hear me." And she went on with some more comment upon their life and habits, while the man squirmed about and put in occasional protests.

Now perhaps my women readers will be wondering why I call this an age-old dialogue between the sexes. Somehow, I do not feel that the men will be similarly puzzled.

My reason is that it seems to me that the habit of thinking people will not hear anything you do not wish them to hear is a distinctly feminine trait, and that men are always reasoning with their women folks about their carelessness in this respect.

The Woman Who Talks Audible Comments.

Haven't you seen women picking out people in a gathering and making comments or explanations about them while their masculine companion urges them to modulate their voices?

Haven't you seen women who are dissatisfied with service or purchases walk through a shop or restaurant commenting freely and sonorously on their dissatisfaction while some unhappy man trails behind, wishing the floor would open and swallow him up?

The Sins of the Tongue Feminine.

I hold no brief for the faultlessness of men. Quite the contrary. But I do think that sins of the tongue are more apt to be feminine offenses; and this is no exception.

Perhaps one explanation of the carelessness of women about what they say, is that they are not held to account as men are. While Mr. Russell might rise up and offer to fight any man who said his failure left him better off than he was before, he couldn't very well fight a woman.

I wonder if it is in the nature of women will unquestionably pay for greater rights by greater responsibilities and "accountabilities," will change this particular trait at all.

WEIRD PUBLIC HEALTH POLICIES

The United States Public Health Service is a great institution working quietly but effectively with comparatively little publicity as compared with the average state health department. Indeed, about all the actual public health activity one can discern in some health departments is what the health officers say about it in the papers.

John Early, who contracted leprosy in the Philippine Islands several years ago, will be remembered by newspaper readers as the victim of a shameful panic which seized several state and federal health authorities about ten years ago. He was the unfortunate who was shipped to a leprosy hospital to place in a box car like a wild beast, just because the several responsible health authorities wished to avoid responsibility of caring for the man.

Early was finally provided for and kept under quarantine in the city of Washington. A few weeks ago he was released to the North Carolina leprosy hospital in North Carolina. The health officer of the village immediately quarantined the Early home and telegraphed to the North Carolina leprosy hospital for instructions. The state board instructed him to retain Early in quarantine (meaning isolation) pending public action by the United States public health service.

LOCAL TEACHERS EXPRESS THANKS

Upon interviewing this morning Mr. Faust, superintendent of schools, expressed to a Gazette reporter in behalf of the teachers of the city, their sincere appreciation for the salary increase granted them by the Board of Education at its last meeting. They are unanimous in their praise of the mayor and common council whose recent action has made possible this highly commendable action on the part of the board of education.

We wish to commend that spirit in the community which is now so vigorously backing the movement to place the teaching corps of the city in a respectable position among the teaching profession of the state, and we pledge our very best efforts to make the Janesville schools second to none in the quality of education offered to the boys and girls of our city.

It seems to us highly desirable that every earnest citizen speak a personal word of encouragement to members of the Council and Board of Education whenever he has the opportunity. They are very apparently making a vigorous fight to better Janesville.

"I found the swimming a trifle more strenuous than I had expected," he began. "I discovered that it was practically impossible for me either to reach the mainland or to get back to Green's island. The general trend of the waves was in this direction, and I was forced to go along, saving my strength for keeping my head above water."

"The rest of my story is absurdly simple. I saw land here and came ashore. It was not quite dark, and I came up the path to the house without noticing the light in the window. I had no thought of there being any inhabitants, and my intention was to rummage around until I found something to eat and some dry clothes."

"As soon as I opened the door I saw that I had committed a social blunder. There was a woman standing at the telephone, and when she saw me she screamed and ran through this door, slamming and locking it after her. It was useless to try to explain to a frightened female the innocuous nature of my visit, so I refrained. I was about to partake of some of the food I found on the table when I heard the key being carefully withdrawn from the lock on the other side. Quick as a flash I asked myself the question, 'Why do people withdraw the keys from locked doors?' The answer struck me instantly. 'So that they may look through the keyholes, of course,' I recollected my costume. With one bound I jumped to the door and put my thumb over the keyhole, where it has been ever since."

"Surely you have heard the telephone bell ringing."

"Yes, it has been making an infernal racket ever since I arrived, but how could I leave my post to answer me helplessly waved his free hand in the direction of the keyhole. "Ouch! Stop!" he yelled, jerking his thumb away and dancing up and down frantically.

"What has happened?" "She jabbed a pin into my thumb. I'm bleeding to death. Put your thumb over the keyhole a minute while I swear."

I was about to do that, foolish as it was, when there was the sound of a rifle shot somewhere outside, and almost simultaneously the lamp which I held fell apart in my hand and crashed to the floor.

"Ha, ha, ha!" laughed Bill Johnson in the darkness. "I see the joke now. 'What happened?' Clair asked. 'Some one shot out the light.' 'What for?'"

"I can't imagine." Any further conversation was cut short by a scattering fusillade of shots, some of which came through the window, as we could tell by the tinkling of glass.

"This is a regular attack," Clair may have been an egotistical ass, but I must give him credit for not showing fear under fire. "What shall we do?"

CHAPTER XV. A Disappointed Sheriff. "I have no weapon with which to fight back. I suppose we had better surrender," said Clair. Suddenly the fusillade ceased, and a moment later a voice at the door exclaimed: "Resistance is useless. Every corner of the room is covered. John, show a light!"

A bullseye flashed. "Do you surrender?" "I do," I promised solemnly.

"Humph! Desperate characters!" declared the voice in the doorway. Several men entered and lit two kerosene lamps which they found in a cupboard and a lantern which seemed to belong to their party.

In the illumination thus afforded I could make out at least a dozen men of the type which is indigenous to the bench in front of the small town grocery store. Just now, however, they were doing an imitation of the vigilance committee in the third act of "The Virginians." One carried a coil of half-inch rope, and all were armed with weapons, which ranged from shotguns to horse pistols. One, a little better dressed than the rest, carried a camera, which he proceeded to set up in one corner of the room.

"Lynch 'em!" yelled the man who carried the rope.

"I'm arrested," announced the original speaker, a rather heavy set man with gray mustaches of the trailing arbutus type. "I'm the sheriff."

He displayed a brilliant new star pinned to a suspender bordering a shirt front, which was slightly discolored by tobacco.

"Arrested?" Clair demanded. "What for?"

"For willful murder." The sheriff shivered slightly as he spoke. "Ain't that so, boys?"

A growl answered him. "Lynch 'em!" yelled the man who carried the rope, apparently fearful lest he had brought his burden in vain.

"Aye, that's it. String 'em up!" These and other enthusiastic cries reassured him.

"Now, wait a minute, boys." The sheriff turned a cold eye on his enthusiastic retinue and spat with a fair degree of accuracy at the kitchen stove.

"While as a private individual I have to admit, boys, that I would enjoy a lynching as much as any of you, still I have to remember that I have a duty to perform, a sacred trust—namely, to wit, to uphold the majesty of the law in Maskeloon county."

"But we've never had a lynching in this county," protested the bloodthirsty man with the rope, "and they've had two over Lake county way."

Local pride nearly swayed the sheriff against us, but at last he held up his hand.

"I can't allow it, boys," he said regretfully. "All we can do, according to the law, is to take 'em to jail."

"Before I move out of this place," Lipton S. Clair protested, "I've got to have some clothes."

"All right, son," soothed the sheriff; "there ain't any call to get hectic about it. Si," turning to one of the others, "see if there ain't some old clothes in that closet in the hired help's room."

Si departed and soon returned with a garment known in history as a Mother Hubbard, so called because of its resemblance to a squash.

"This is all I could find," Si reported. "The Huntingdons' help was a female woman."

"That'll do," the sheriff said briefly, tossing it to Clair. "Put this on without any arguments and we'll be on our way."

Clair thought of protesting, but was overcome by the idea of the woman in the next room and hastily donned the garment, which was cut on lines designed to cover any sort of figure which nature could turn out. The effect of the dress plus the whiskers was startling, to say the least.

"Before we go," the sheriff decided, "we had best have a look at the remains." To me he said: "Where is the deceased? Where is Mrs. Green?"

"Mrs. Green hasn't been murdered," I started to set him straight.

"I didn't ask how she met her death," the sheriff thundered. "Of course I don't expect you to admit you killed her. All I asked was where she is, and, by George, I'll have an answer. Where is she?"

I pointed silently at the locked door. "Boys," said the sheriff with emotion, "a poor, defenseless woman lies beyond that door foully done to death by these here ruffians. Slath, Wadsworth, Clancy, Sneider, you will act as ambulance department."

Four of his comedians went toward the door. "Wait!" the leader commanded. "Before you enter that room take off them hats."

The four nondescript hats came off silently. Then they discovered that the door was locked. However, that proved only a slight obstacle, for the lock was easily forced. It struck me as funny that Mrs. Green had not walked out on the scene before this. A premonition of coming disaster gripped my heart.

The four men re-entered, carrying reverently a limp figure, which was unmistakably Mrs. Green. Had she been struck by a stray bullet from the attacking party? If she had, things certainly were looking black for Clair and myself. We had no way of proving that we were innocent, and all circumstantial evidence would be against us. A murmur of anger ran around the room, and the man with the rope flung it nervously.

"Steady, boys," the sheriff ordered. "One moment." The young man with the camera held up his hand. "Don't move."

There was a blinding flash, and my overwrought nerves jumped seven feet and rebounded before my brain assured them it was only a flash-light.

The effect on the four members of the ambulance squad was even more startling. Apparently not expecting the explosion, they dropped their burden and stood with mouths open. Accidentally they dropped the body in a sitting posture.

There was a slight scream. Mrs. Green opened her eyes and demanded, "Where am I?"

If the officers of the law had been started before, their condition now was absolute consternation.

"Madame," the sheriff inquired, "aren't you dead?"

"I should say not." "Then you are not Mrs. Green." "I certainly am." "But Mrs. Green is dead. Her daughter told us so."

"Dead! Fiddlesticks! It's a wonder I'm not, though, after coming over here in an open boat and being attacked by a half naked savage with whiskers, and, let's see—some one was shot. That's when I fainted. I guess, because I don't remember anything more until just now."

"All I have to say," stated the man with the rope, jamming his hat on disrespectfully, "is that this is a bum night to get a man to play a joke on him."

"Madame," the sheriff said, with gloomy politeness, "you have spoiled the only murder case we ever had in Maskeloon county; that's what you have done. Come on, boys."

In majestic silence the members of the sheriff's posse filed from the room. The young man with the camera was left behind, hastily picking up his traps in order to join the others before their boat left the island.

I approached him. "Now that there is no murder mystery," I began, "I presume that the picture you took will be useless."

"Not at all," he answered, too busy folding up his tripod to notice that I had opened the shutter of his camera. "We'll find use for it some way."

I lit a match and held it about an inch from the lens of the camera, pretending to examine the name of the maker on it.

Dinner Stories

A Cleveland man taking the censorship of one of the war's best stories. "In Baltimore," he relates, "was a colored cook who is one of the real originals. The official war time substitutes for cake had just arrived and were under discussion, sans sugar, sans wheat flour and sans everything else that is supposed to make a good cake. 'Mammy' listened to it scowlingly.

"That 'ere ain't a recipe, it's a prescription," declared the mammy when she couldn't hold in her disgust any longer."

Mrs. William Harkness of the Long Island College Hospital Guild has been assisting in the Y. M. C. A. work at the navy yard. Recently when acting as postmistress, she came to know that in some parts of this country "M" is sometimes more than a mere form of polite address. One rosy sailor asked for his own mail, and for any letters addressed to his friend, John Gub. Mrs. Harkness found a letter so addressed and handed it over. The sailor hesitated.

"This ain't for John," he said at length. "It is addressed to him," said Mrs. Harkness. "Isn't that the name?"

Still the sailor held back. "Yes," he said finally, "but it ain't for John says 'Mister,' and he ain't married."

"Your husband seems very fond of gold," said the sailor. "Yes, I guess it's because it's the only irritation he has discovered in which he has all outdoors to express his feelings."

MORRIS MILLER

Frank J. Merrick, known nationally to amateur ball players because of his work in the old national baseball association and the present National Amateur Federation, did his bit in the war.

I received a letter from "Doc," as he is known by his friends, a day or two ago. Merrick joined the aviation service in the war, and was sent overseas. He is now stationed in London on an "easy job," and has been wounded in battle.

Merrick was secretary of the Cleveland Amateur Baseball Association, which took a leading part in organizing a national association of amateur organizations. He made the cross-country trip with the White Auto team of Cleveland the year they won the world's championship.

According to an eastern paper, Hobey Baker, famous Princeton athletic star who served in the U. S. aviation service in the war, has lost his first contest with Dan Cupid.

A while ago across the sea came the pretty story of Hobey's battle-field romance with Miss Mimi Scott, wealthy Newport heiress. They had met while Hobey was a Princeton student just again in France when Hobey rescued some lost French tots in a forest and carried them to a hut where Miss Scott was caring for refugees. Their courtship was not untroubled, but according to the recent word Miss Scott's grandmother has said that the engagement has been broken off.

There are few things surer in this world than "Charley Bricley's" intellectual big toe. Bricley's exhibition of all around kicking at the Princeton S. A. T. C. team whipped "Camp Upton," was a thing something for the eye to look upon, spectators say.

Charley had three or four retrievers in human form that he planted at different corners of the lot and he seldom missed the human target more than a foot or two away.

One could almost have imagined that Bricley had said: "My good man, you run right down from center here and stand on the five-yard mark, three feet this side of the side line and I'll kick your headgear off."

Of course "Charley didn't SAY that, but that's just the way he KICKED."

Frank Kramer has been signed up to ride in the six-day race at New York during the week of Dec. 7-7. The entry has been sought by the management for the past month, but it was not until Kramer convinced himself that he was fit for the long grind that he had been signed from past three weeks. Kramer has been putting in hard licks at the Newark track, taking special care of his knees, which bothered him so in last year's event.

Had the resistance of the central powers been prolonged but a short time it is probable that at least 100,000 men would have embarked for France before the Hun's request for an armistice. Benny Kant, Ruben Benton, Fred Anderson and Jess Hennes, when last heard from, had about concluded their training in this country and daily anticipated sailing orders.

If the plan of sending back earliest from France those soldiers who went over first is followed, then Herb Frank Gosseloe should be among the latest arrivals in old New York or Boston. The war department says boys will be starting home in a couple of weeks.

The first American to put his foot on German soil (Alsace) since America entered the war was Sgt. Jim Miller, who served in the 1st Marine Division of Salt Lake, Utah, Mich. It is said.

It will be months before any definite date on the lines of major league clubs can be obtained. The players who entered the service are scattered through every branch and classification of it. The teams which have a great number of players overseas will have the most difficult job of planning next season's roster.

The Brooklyn club furnishes a good example.

According to an eastern scribe the Robins have eighteen men in service and most of them are in France. The ball season may be under way before all of these return.

The members of the club who are known to be over there now are: Leon Cadore, Sherrard Smith, John Miller, Clarence Mitchell, Chuck Miller, these players, Lewis Malone, John Kelleher and Raymond Schmandt. Of these the players who will figure largely in the rebuilding of the team are: Cadore and Smith and Kelleher, Schmandt and Ward. The players now in the navy are: Rube Marquard, Burleigh Grimes, Ernest Krueger, Jeff Pfeffer, Eugene Sheridan, Jimmie Hickman, Harry Heltman and Dick Durning. John Russell, a southpaw, is at Camp Upton. It is likely that Russell will leave Upton soon, and he may be followed by Marquard and Grimes. These two twisters are with the mine sweepers' aggregation at the Brooklyn navy yard.

Standers, Walkers, "Gets-It" for Corns

World Has Never Known It's Equal.

"What will get rid of my corn?" the answer "Gets-It" has been mud-dy by millions—there's only one corn-remover that you can bank on, that's absolutely certain, that makes any corn

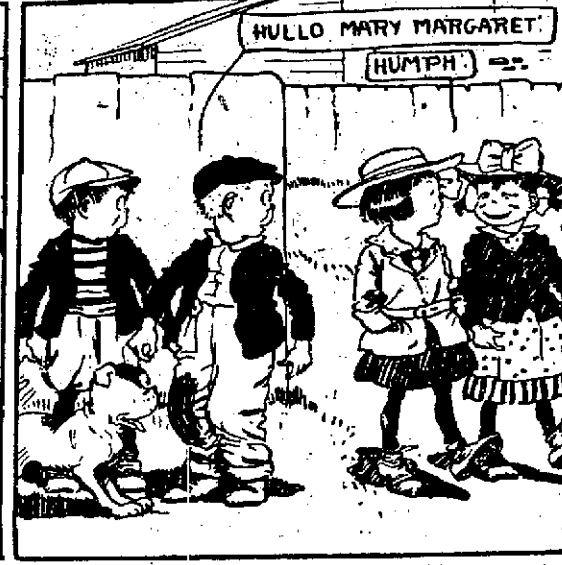

Corn-Pain Is Eased—The Corn Is Doomed!

On earth peel right off like a banana skin—and that's magic "Gets-It" tight shoes and dancing even when you have a corn. It does not hurt you if you apply a few drops of "Gets-It" on the corn or callus. You want a corn-remover, not a corn-roofer. You don't have to fool with corns. You peel them right off with your fingers by using "Gets-It." Cutting makes corns grow and bleed. Why use irritating salves or make a bundle of your toes with band-aids? Why putter and still have the corn? Use "Gets-It"—your corn-pain is over, the corn is a "goner" sure as "Gets-It" the guaranteed money-back corn-remover, the only sure way, costs but a trifle at any store. Mfg'd by E. ## "CAP" STUBBS

"CAP" CHANGES HIS MIND.

"CAP" CHANGES HIS MIND.

"CAP" CHANGES HIS MIND.

It is almost certain that some of the men who finished out the 1918 season will be missing from the roster of next year's club.

Jack Coombs has retired from the diamond, and Jack Daubert, who is now bringing suit against the club for unpaid salary, may not be offered another contract. Wilkey Doolan is another player who may be among the missing. If Shmandt is home in time he will probably succeed Daubert as the Tobins' first baseman, but he was called upon to fill up the gap at the middle station during the training season last spring. Ollie O'Mara may be moved from third to second and Chuck Ward or some one of the other infielders now in the service will be placed at third.

Richard F. Remer established two new American walking records in the open eight-mile handicap event held by the Pastime Athletic club in New York in aid of the United War Work campaign. The marks bettered by the New York Athletic club athletes were one for one hour and the other for eight miles, held by J. B. Clark.

Remer started from scratch with Eddie Renz, and covered seven miles 1,437 yards and four inches when he broke the former record of Clark of seven miles 1,813 yards, made in 1880 in New York. Remer finished the twelfth position in one hour one minute and thirty four seconds, bettering the former American figures of one hour two minutes and eight and one-half seconds the credit of Clark.

The performances were attested to by a number of members of the Metropolitan Association, who will sign affidavits attesting to the compliance of all rules in the request for record books. There is no question as to the accuracy of the track, while the odd distances were measured with a steel tape.

Evansville News

A Monument for Our Boys.

Evansville, Dec. 5.—Another matter of civic importance was up for consideration at the meeting of the Evansville Commercial club held last Tuesday evening, a matter that will certainly meet with the full approval and appreciation of the people of Evansville. The question of a suitable monument to the young men of this community to the soldiers who have given their services and their lives for their country. Will any man question the necessity of such a memorial? Will any citizen question the expenditure of funds for such a cause? We think not. Therefore, it is that the commercial club presents for your consideration the question of a suitable tribute to our boys and the cause they represented so loyally and so bravely. Now is the acceptance time. Tomorrow will not do. Will you be a laggard when they responded so nobly? What say you, Mr. Citizen?

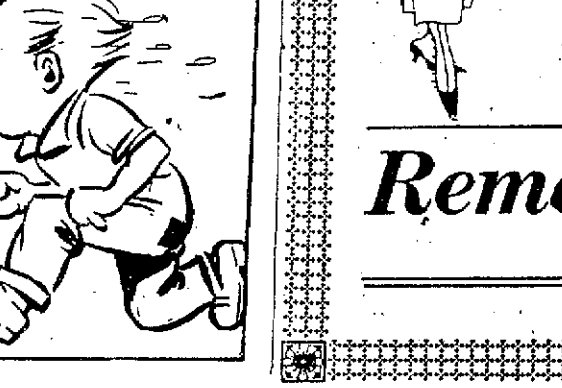

God and country has long been before the public as a matter of discussion. The execution of the large service board on Main street and the honor roll that his patriotism inspired the mayor to erect on his watchtower are typical of the feeling that our citizens have toward the boys. But they are, and of necessity must be, but temporary expressions of a love and gratitude in honor and respect that shall last and must last as long as men endure. It is fitting, therefore, that there be erected within the confines of Evansville, a monument that will make concrete the sentiments of the community. To bring this worthy government before the people of Evansville, the subject was thoroughly considered, a resolution was passed and a committee appointed to present the resolution to the board of aldermen at the next meeting. The plan back of this action by the commercial club is to have a permanent monument erected at the entrance to Leonard Park. This monument would be in the form of a bronze memorial tablet, having the names of all the young men in the community that have served the allied armies in the World War. The bronze tablet, it is planned, would rest on a granite base, the whole being a substantial concrete foundation. Such a memorial would be in honor to the cause it represents, a credit to the community and an inspiration and incentive to the generations of future Americans.

SAMSON TRACTOR $650

THE above announcement, which appeared in a recent issue of this paper, resulted in receiving thousands of inquiries. Everyone of these we propose to answer in detail. The enormous amount of work involved in classifying these inquiries will, of necessity, delay our replies. On the opposite page, you will find a copy of our letter and the form, which we are asking you to fill out and return to us.

We also invite those who have not answered our first advertisement to fill in blank on opposite page and receive further information.

SAMSON TRACTOR COMPANY, Janesville, Wisconsin

SAMSON TRACTOR COMPANY
JANESVILLE, WISCONSIN

Dear Sir:

In response to your valued inquiry, we are enclosing a blank form which we will ask you to fill out and return promptly to us. Our object in obtaining this information is to determine whether or not the Samson (Model M) is suited to your needs and to what extent your particular locality lends itself to the use of tractors of the Wheel Type.

To be perfectly frank and candid with you, and to have you know what we are driving at, we beg to offer the following in explanation:

WE DON'T WANT you to buy a Two-Three Plow Tractor if it would be to your advantage to buy a Three-Four Plow Tractor. If your farm is better adapted by reason of acreage, crop rotation or soil conditions, to the Three-Four Plow type, we want you to have it, because it will be a more economical investment and will produce 25 per cent. better results with the same amount of labor.

NOTE: In this connection we wish to advise that we have designed and are testing out a Three-Four Plow Tractor which we expect to offer to the public within the next few months. This will be known as Samson (Model A) and the price will be in the neighborhood of $900.

WE DON'T WANT you to make an investment in Samson (Model M) Tractor if the Samson (Model M) Tractor is not the best type for your particular purpose.

WE DON'T WANT you to make an investment in Samson (Model M) Tractor if the Samson (Model M) Tractor is of little value and means nothing to you if the tractor will not do your work.

WE DO WANT you in the Samson family—a satisfied and continuous customer for SAMSON.

WE DO WANT you to investigate and (regardless of any high powered, land breaking tractors that you may buy or own) purchase a Samson (Model D) light, high frame, direct drive tractor, for which we are now taking orders. Price $450.

It will be to your interest to own the Samson (Model D) tractor which you are now using; BECAUSE this tractor will handle every horse drawn farm tool which you are now using; BECAUSE we will be prepared to furnish the more important types of farm tools, made especially to work with Samson (Model D), at just one-half the price which you will have to pay for these farm tools when you come to replace them; BECAUSE the Samson (Model D), in connection with a ground-breaking tractor of any type and a Samson light truck, will eliminate every horse on your farm.

METHOD OF ALLOTTING SAMSON (Model M) TRACTORS

The demand for Samson Tractors from all parts of the world is enormous. Our production for the next four months will not exceed 10,000 tractors. If applications and contracts were filled in the order in which they are received, our entire production might be absorbed by two or three States. For the purpose of obtaining a wide distribution, and giving the public an opportunity of investigating a wide distribution, we are allotting a certain number to each county, with a proper Township distribution, locating the samples where most convenient for the greatest number.

Your application, accompanied by your order or other, will receive our best consideration.

Very truly yours,

MANY YOUNG LADIES STUDYING JOURNALISM

Madison, Dec. 3.—Of the 83 students enrolled this term in the four-year course in Journalism at the University of Wisconsin 73 are young women and only 10 men. Ever since the world war began the proportion of women in the Wisconsin school of journalism has been steadily increasing.

No large has been the increase in the number of girls enrolled this fall that despite the large loss of men students in journalism the total enrollment in the school is only nine less than at the same time last year. Of the 81 students in the Course of Journalism in the fall of 1917, only 55 of them were young women. This fall there are 73 women, an increase of nearly 50 per cent.

With the demobilization of the Student Army Training Corps, and the release of men from officers' training camps, it is expected that a large number of former students of journalism and some new students will swell the enrollment of young men at the school of journalism at Wisconsin. Special provision is being made by Prof. Wilbur G. Beyer, head of the school, to enable these student soldiers to enter the Course of Journalism at the beginning of the second term on December 30. New classes will be organized in newspaper reporting, copy-writing, advertising, feature writing and other subjects, in order to enable students entering the second term to take up their work without any handicap.

EAGLES HOLD ANNUAL ELECTION OF OFFICERS

A bowling league has been organized and the games will start within a few days. Plans were also discussed for the holding of a reception when the soldiers return. A cribbage tournament is to be staged and other lodges in the city are to be invited to participate.

Are You Using Soft Coal?

We have found a method to help eliminate the soot. One-quarter ton of nut size coke with every ton soft coal will practically eliminate the soot nuisance.

For furnace use we recommend the use of coke and Anthracite Buckwheat.

We have a good stock of Hemlock Slabs, Hardwood Slabs and Cordwood.
